Camarillo Reads: Memories of Imprisonment

Wednesday, September 27 / 4 p.m. / Community Room

Sam Mihara was nine years old when Japan attacked Pearl Harbor and the United States entered World War II. Shortly after, Sam and his family were forced from their San Francisco home by armed military guards and sent to the Heart Mountain prison camp in Wyoming. Sam will give a detailed look into his life inside the prison camp, as well as life after his release. Through the lens of a prison camp survivor, Sam questions what lessons were learned through this experience, and if mass imprisonment could potentially happen again in the United States.
